

ARTISTIC PORTFOLIO

Who am I

My name is Renan B. Torquato, but I sign my work as Torquatto, a variation of my last name. I was born in Tucuruí, a city in the interior of Amazon, where I spent most of my life. Currently, I live in Brasília, where I work as a digital illustrator, focusing on vector illustrations. My journey into graffiti began after establishing my path as an illustrator. Since childhood, I have always loved drawing, but it was only in the past seven years that I began working professionally as an illustrator. Graffiti became part of my life after moving to Brasília five years ago, and since then, I have been refining my style and technique.

My sources of inspiration are deeply rooted in the North, where I was born, and the Northeast, where much of my family comes from. In addition to these regional influences, I also carry the experience of skateboarding, a sport I practiced for over 10 years. Currently, my challenge is to continue developing my artistic identity, with a more vectorized style where I like to compose elements around faces, animals, or any central character. I am an admirer of the fauna and flora of the North, which is reflected in my choice of color palettes.

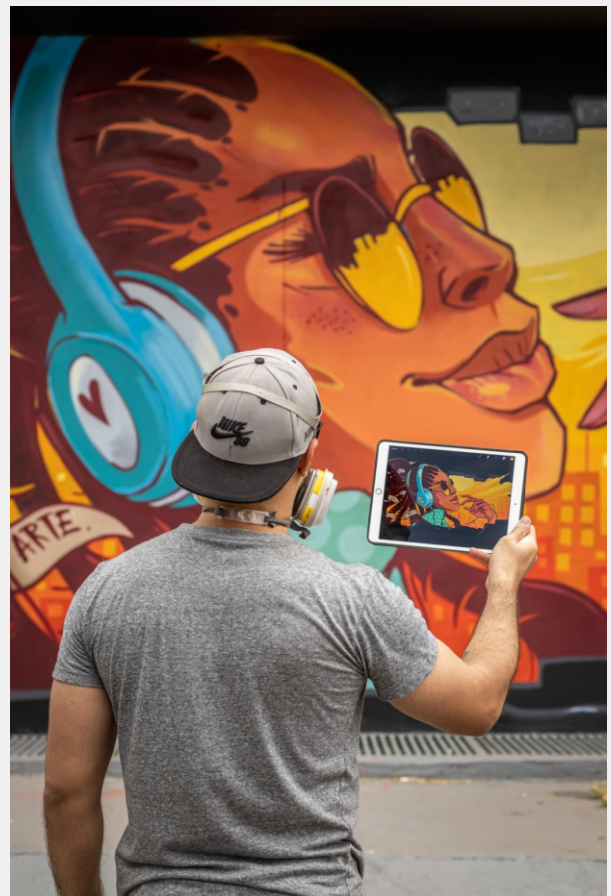

I believe that art is a continuous process of evolution, and for this reason, I keep experimenting with new ways to express myself while always keeping my roots as a reference.
